FACTS

What does ICW Investment Advisors LLC, doing business as Intelligent Capitalworks (“ICW”), do with your personal information?

Why?

Financial companies choose how they will share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?

The types of personal information we collect and share depends on the service we provide for you. This information can include:

- Non-Public Personally Identifying information, such as Social Security Numbers, dates of birth, and driver’s license numbers
- Non-Public Financial Institution information, such as account numbers, balances and transactional information
- Non-Public Personal Financial information, such as income, employment and other information acquired from applications or other forms, in-person interviews with you, authorized software, and information we receive from your trusted advisors (accountants, attorneys and other advisors)
- Information used in the ordinary course of business, such as email addresses, phone numbers and other operational information

When you are no longer our client, we may continue to share your information as described in this notice.

How?

All financial companies need to share clients’ personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies may share their clients’ personal information; whether ICW chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.
